I support senior associates and counsel with lateral moves, often into day one partnership.

Before joining LTN, I worked as a white collar investigations lawyer at Ropes & Gray and spent some time practising as an interim consultant for Linklaters and various other firms.

Now I help lawyers with their next career move, matching their goals to the opportunities available with our top tier law firm clients.

I'm passionate about connecting our clients with my diverse network of candidates, particularly women, minorities and people from underrepresented social backgrounds.

In my spare time, I sometimes speak at events and run workshops on intersectional identity. When I'm not trying to put the world to rights, you can usually find me at home with my nose in a good book.
