I work in the partner team at LTN and focus on providing advice to senior associates, counsel, and partners who are looking for their next career move. With seven years of experience in legal recruitment, I have worked with a wide range of law firms, from top US firms and the Magic Circle to 'boutique' law firms in London's West End.

My approach is detailed and research-heavy, ensuring I provide lawyers with all the information they need when considering a move.

The legal market has changed substantially since I started. Now, there is a great deal of emphasis on workplace culture and the provision of flexible working options. As the market continues in this direction, I am also very happy to speak with lawyers who are interested in finding out what options might be available to them.
