Having left the world of law in 2016 to establish my own legal recruitment business, joining LTN & Partners and working alongside former colleagues seemed the logical next step given the ambitions of LTN and our previous cooperation and success in establishing and building new businesses.

My current focus combines my role as Chief Operating Officer with working alongside our Consultancy, Partner, and Associate teams.

Prior to moving into legal search and consultancy, I was a member of the senior non-lawyer team that established the London office of a US law firm and prior to that, a member of the senior business support team that built one of the leading leveraged finance businesses in the City. My law firm career began in 1995, and I have worked extensively on the ground in London, Asia and Continental Europe and have maintained strong links and connections in these markets.

I am based in London having given up the far sunnier, warmer, and more attractive climate of the Mediterranean in 2022 and now spend much of my time asking why.
