As a partner at leading global Wall Street and City firms, my legal career focused predominantly (though not exclusively) on emerging markets, advising bulge-bracket investment banks, sovereign and quasi-sovereign states, ultra-high-net-worth individuals, as well as blue-chip corporates on numerous ground-breaking financing and securities transactions. I focused initially on Russia and the former CIS countries before expanding my practice into India, the Middle East, and Africa.

From 2013 to 2020 I successfully set up a legal-focused business consultancy at the request of various ultra-high-net-worth individuals/family offices, the CEOs of blue-chip global corporates, and senior partners at global professional-service providers, to provide strategic advisory and consultancy services, assist with or effect change management, drive business development, and execute on specific projects. In that period, I also successfully established, financed, grew, and exited two successful sports related businesses.

I have worked with Maurice and other members of the LTN team for close to 18 years.
